Embassy of Switzerland supports Rain Tree Foundation

The Embassy of Switzerland in Thailand has recently agreed to fund the Chiang Mai based Rain Tree Foundation for a project in building water filters for families in the mountain region of Northern Thailand. The Rain Tree Foundation is an NGO focusing on helping the poor in Thailand. Its main focus is among others children education, community projects and water projects. The Rain Tree Foundation is a relief and development organization that is registered under the Ministry of Interior in Thailand. The Rain Tree Foundation aims to provide the villages in rural areas with access to clean and safe drinking water by installing water filters. The Rain Tree Foundation has already distributed more than 1'000 filters amongst hill tribe families in northern Thailand. With the support of the Embassy of Switzerland another 150 filter could be purchased and distributed to families. The Rain Tree Foundation also receives the support of many other individual donors and public and private organizations.
